

A Fable of the Future.

In 1920 A. D. the Stingiest Man in Stringtown carted his Household Goods to the Depot and bought a ticket for Millionville, the Metropolis.

"Why are you moving to Millionville?" inquired a Citizen.

"To save postage," replied the Stingiest Man. Whereat the Citizen marveled mightily.

Now, be it known that the Stingiest Man in Stringtown was wise in his Day and Generation, for along back in 1907 A. D. or thereabout it became the Settled Habit of the Stringtown people to purchase Large Sheets of Little Stickers bearing portraits of G. Washington, B. Franklin, W. McKinley and other Late Illustrious Ones, which Specimens of Art they straightway stuck on envelopes and sent to a Large and Luring Mail Order Concern in Millionville. Wherefore it came about that the Seven Stores in Stringtown Shut up Shop, one after the other, until along in 1919 A. D. the Stingiest Man found it incumbent upon him to begin purchasing these Small Specimens of Art to present to the Maw of the Monster in Millionville, and the Aforesaid was Simply too Stingy to stand for the Same.

Are You A Booster?

The man who can not stand up for the community in which he lives should move out and thus make room for the person who does believe in home and home enterprises. The community that is good enough in which to live is certainly good enough to boost to the front.

Better Go To Work.

Chief Herron tells us that he is determined to enforce the vagrant law, and that all parties, both white and colored, who have no visible means of support will be taken up and tried. There are many idle loafers who should be made to stay off the street and go to work.

Good Increase.

She is a charming and accomplished young lady, and we trust she will succeed in her quest.

He Spend's His Money With You.

It is a mighty good plan to keep all contracts at home. When an outsider bids on a job, all things being equal, better let the home man have the contract, even though it costs a few dollars more. But as a rule it does not cost any more to have the home man do the work. As a matter of fact, the chances are that he can do the work cheaply as any one, and in addition to this is the fact that he is near at hand to make good any defect that might arise in the completed job. Past experiences in Lancaster are enough to back up The Record's claim along this line.

Don't.

Don't ask the editor to publish a list of wedding gifts.

Don't add to the terrors of death by tacking several starzas of doggerel to a death notice. Don't crowd the mourners.

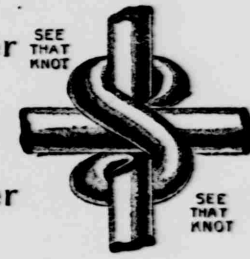

Don't lug old clippings into a news paper office and tell the editor you have brought him "something to fill up with." Take him a cabbage; he can fill up with that.

Don't kick a man when he is down unless you are sure that he will never get up again.

Don't put lard on a man's shoes when you see a man "going down hill." They are already greased for the occasion.

Don't pray with the hungry man until you have given him something to eat. Prayer without pork availeth n't.

Not better than the best

But better than the rest

Highest grade, standard, heavy gauge farm fencing. The only fence manufactured with no sharp bend or kink in the line wire. By this method of construction the knot is relieved of all tendency to loosen when subjected to strain, or contraction or expansion caused by heat or cold and inasmuch as there is no possibility of rupturing the galvanizing or fiber of the line wire, rust is prevented and the life of the entire fence is greatly prolonged.
